The Fight and the Victory.

Greenat-I moved with my command this morning to Middleburg, and attacked the cavalry force of the rebels under Steart, and steadily drove him all day, indicting heavy loss at every step.

We took two pieces of artillery one being a Blakely legether with three causeons, besides blowing on We also captured upwards of sixty prisoners, and and five other officers, and a large number of wounded rebels left in the town of Upperville.

They left their dead and wounded upon the field. Of the former I saw upwards of twenty. We also took a a number of carbines; pistols and sabres. In fact, it a most disastrous day to the rebel cavalry.

Our loss has been very small both in men and horse S never saw the troops behave better or under more diffi the sabre was used freely, but always with great advactage to us. A. PLEASANTON, Brigadier General.

Additional Particulars of the Fight.

Pleasanton yesterday morning, in his advance from Middieburg, on the road to Ashby's Gay, encountered the rebel force a short distance from the former town.

Be attacked them with great impetuouity and broke their front. The rebels resisted bravely, contesting the ground foot by foot, until, when near Upperville, they atpromptly met and repulsed by General Gregg's com-

The Reports from the Front.

WASHINGTON, June 22, 1863. General Hooker has ordered that nothing shall be said by correspondents in the front until the grand battle comes off. Therefore we are without any news, Every thing we know in from rumor, and that rumor we will give you to-night when the last advices are received. We are ferbidden jand we do not care to publish the various rumors in circulation here.

General Lee is said to be in force in the valley in Vis ginia. It is believed that the rebel cavalry which bave so persistingly defended the gaps of the Bull run and Shenandoah mountains had no rebel supporting force within reach of the Shenandonh valley except Stuart's cavalry.

It is possible that the advance of General Lee has given some trouble to General Hocker's army, and bliged them to be marched and countermarched.

racter express the idea that the fortifications of Washington are imperfect, it may be stated, on the authority of General Heintrelman, that they can hold an invading force at bay for a very long period of time.

Major Sterling and Captain Fisher, of General Hooker's staff, who were captured by a party of rebel scoots on Thursday, were at the time carrying orders to General

THE COUNTY OF VIROUMA.

No particularly noticeable meidents have occurred on the march. The country has been generally declared by the marchings and constormarchings of the various bostle armies. From attet's statem, by Manasses and across the old and the new Hall rim buttle fields to Centreville, is as desert a looking country as can well be inscined.

treville is as doors a looking country as can well be imagined.

The enemy's force, like our own, was composed of cavalry, light artiflery and dismounted skirminhers.

Captain Snyder and Lieutenant Wicker, of the Signal corps, were captured last night en South Mountain.

A day's rest at least. Aidje abounds in beautiful shade trees and refreshing running streams. The village is pret tily situated to the north of the Buil Run Mountains, and is a succession of bills and valleys. The forests are bean tiful, and are not unlike those of the North. I have never seen in Virginia so many cake as spread their broad branches over the dwellings of Aidle. The houses are generally of the cot age style of architecture, and present a neat and homelike appearance. The farms look flourishing, the gries mill is full of work, peultry run round with but four of molestation, children are far and amperous. them. In fact, one would be pleased with Aid e.
